CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE AND JEFF DAVIS.

The Chief Justice refuses to try JEFF. DAVIS Why? Because he knows very well, that on such trial, the counsel of Davis would quote the repeatedly written and oral declarations of the Chief Justice, that there were certain provisions o the Constitution of the United States that neither he nor his Republican friends could obey. knows they would quote his speech in the Peace Convention in which he frankly said to the Southern members: "Gentlemen, I do not wish to deceive you. We of the North de not hold that provision of the Constitution of the United States requiring us to return your fugitives from service binding on our consciences, and we will not obey; nor will we permit you to go into the common territories with your slaves, notwithstanding the decision of the Supreme Court." Now, when these extracts should be quoted on the trial of Davis, the Chief Justice would be embarrassed in explaining why it was treason for Davis to disregard the Constitution, but not for CHASE and his Republican friends We don't wonder he declines to try Davis.

A WAR WITH ENGLAND TO BE AVOIDED, AND HOW.

The United States has been making a claim upon Great Britain for damages done to our by the Confederate war steamers civil war, on the ground that Great Britain provided those steamers for the Confederates contrary to the laws of Nations. But it is proposed now to abandon the claim, recognize the acts of Great Britain as according to the law of Nations, and apply the same law to her by recognizing the Irish in a state of rebellion as a de facto Nation, and furnish the Irish with war steamers, or privateers under the Irish flag and thus prey upon British commerce. We shall see if it will be done.

CARRINGTON AND CO., LATE OF THE CITY.

When the Supreme Court of Indiana decided in the case of GRIFFIN vs. WILCOX, 21st Indiana, that the section of the act of the 3d o March, 1863, exempting from liability any person who committed outrages upon the citizens by order of the President, that Court was denounced without stint, because it would not sanction lawlessness, military and mob tyranny. We take the following from the Nashville Union:

We published, a short time since, a brief article in regard to a decision by Judge Smalley, in the United States Circuit Court for Vermont at Rutland. The following article will give the reader a more thorough understanding of the points of the case:

AN IMPORTANT SUIT AND DECISION BY A UNITED STATES COURT.

A very interesting and important case has recently been tried in the United States Circuit Court for Vermont, held at Rutland, before Judge Smalley. It was an action for assault and battery and false imprisonment, brought by Hiram Walker, a manufacturer of Burlington, against C. R. Crane, Assistant Provost Marshal of the United States for the First Congressional District of Vermont. The trial is reported at length in the Montpelier Argus and Patriot, from which we condense the material facts in the

The plaintiff went to Rutland in August, 1863, for the purpose of enlisting a substitute for a young man in his employment. He made ar-rangements with one Norton, who was on his way to Rutland with three Canadians to be enlisted, to furnish him with one of those men. Norton made a contract with the Selectmen of Rutland, for the other two men. Upon going up to the Provost Marshal's office to pay off his man, the plaintiff was rudely accosted, charged with being a substitute broker, and thrust down stairs. Some words ensued, when defendant arrested plaintiff, and confined him in Rutland jail, in the common room with vagrants and criminals, but shortly after he was taken out by a squad of soldiers and disharged. The defendant was subsequently sent for to go to the Provost's office to pay his man, which he did.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

The idea of the Democratic party touching the question of negro suffrage, as we understand is this: that the position should be taken : once, that this is to be a perpetual Government f the white race, that the experiment of Mexicanizing this country, or placing it upon the footing of the South American Governments of mixed races, should never be attempted; that a political partnership with the negroes should never be contemplated. That the negro should, as an inhabitant of the country, be allowed all his civil rights, have the protection of the laws, in his subordinate relation. all will admit; but it is believed that it will be atended with untold evils to both races, if associated with the white man as an equal in its administration of the Government. But this policy of the Democracy cannot be carried out, for the reason that the right of suffrage is conferred by the States severally, and ome of them have already conferred it on the negro; and others will do so-they must do so where the Republicans are in power, to maintain their consistency in claiming that the Southern States shall be required to confer it, as a condiion of having a just representation in Congress. All the Democrats can do, on the negro question n Indiana, therefore, is:

1. To oppose negro suffrage in Indiana. 2. To oppose, in Congress, measures calcula ted to force negro suffrage on the Southern

How, then, can we preserve this country from being Mexicanized? From the evils which Governor Morton admits must follow such an

The Basis of Representation.

The following table demonstrates the necessity of a constitutional amendment, basing representation in Congress upon voters rather than population. The first column shows the numper of representatives the several States would be entitled to on a white basis, which corresponds to the basis of actual voters; the second column give the number the States will have on the basis of population, now that the negroes are counted; the third column the present number, or the three-fifths negro basis:

We are obliged to the Journal for the foregoing useful table, showing the effect on the South of the amendment, first proposed, it is said, by the editor of the Journal, to base representation on votes instead of people. Nothing could more clearly demonstrate that the amendment should be entitled, an amendment to deprive the Southern States of a large portion of their Representatives, and reduce them to helplespess. This is Northern fairness to the Southern members of our Union. It appears, also, that the Journal holds the doctrine that, in our Government, the people are not represented, but voters. It seems that it is a time-honored principle with the Republicans, to disregard and mu tilate our Federal Constitution, so far as, by so a raft. doing, they can harrass and oppress the South.
